RE: Agenda Item I.4 – Deep-Set Buoy Gear Authorization – Final Action

Dear Chair Anderson, Council Members and Mr. Thom:

We write in support of deep-set buoy gear authorization as a legally allowable fishing gear to catch species like swordfish under the Highly Migratory Species Fishery Management Plan. Years of scientific studies and commercial fishing trials prove that deep-set buoy gear is a selective method to successfully catch swordfish while avoiding harm to marine mammals and sea turtles. Additionally, fishermen who use deep set buoy gear can garner a higher price for their catch as they can deliver the catch to the market in a more pristine condition and to consumers who are willing to pay more for truly sustainably-caught swordfish. Authorizing deep-set buoy gear could allow more fishermen to use this innovative fishing gear, thereby increasing the production and availability of sustainably and locally caught domestic swordfish.

In your consideration of new fishing gear types for Highly Migratory Species, we oppose the use of pelagic longlines off the West Coast and hope that you will no longer entertain any future possibility of permitting or conducting future experiments with this wasteful fishing gear. Pelagic longlines have been banned off the West Coast for over four decades for good reason. The last time pelagic longlines were tested off California, more than 40 sharks were caught for every swordfish. California's ocean ecosystem contains among the highest marine mammal densities on earth, is home to critical nursery areas for sharks, and is simply too important to ruin with harmful indiscriminate fishing gear. The waste created from pelagic longlines for many species is even worse than for drift gillnets—another similarly destructive fishing gear that is now being phased out by the State of California.

We believe that deep-set buoy gear will provide West Coast residents with a new and increased fresh and sustainable source of locally caught swordfish keeping marine mammals and sea turtles safe. For these reasons, we urge you to authorize deep-set buoy gear as a legal fishing gear, phase out federal drift gillnets consistent with California law and permanently end any future consideration of pelagic longlines.

Sincerely,

20,323 individuals of the U.S. and U.S. Territories
